Dear Ms. Lowry:

I am writing in connection with a previous request I made to your committee on June 25, 2013, to access certain classified materials. In addition to those materials referenced in my previous letter, I am requesting access to documents referenced in the July 11, 2013, article in the San Jose Mercury News entitled "Yahoo seeks to reveal its fight against NSA Prism requests." Specifically, I would like to review Yahoo's arguments to the FISA Court(s), NSA's and/or the Justice's Department's arguments to the FISA Court(s), and the FISA Court(s)' order related to the Yahoo case. I am requesting the aforementioned due to my duty as a Member of Congress to inform myself of the important issues so that I can properly uphold and defend the Constitution.

Please do not hesitate to contact my Chief of Staff, Kelly Lungren McCollum, at 5-0163 should you need additional information.

Dear Ms. Lowry:

Four weeks ago, I wrote to you for the purpose of requesting access to classified materials. I followed up my original June 25th request with supplemental requests on July 12th and July 22nd. The purpose of this correspondence is to follow up on those letters. Given that four weeks have passed since my original request, can you provide me with guidance of a timeframe of when I should expect to learn whether the Committee has granted or denied my requests?

I would like to reiterate that I am requesting access to these documents due to my duty as a Member of Congress to inform myself of the important issues so that I can properly uphold and defend the Constitution. Please do not hesitate to contact my Chief of Staff, Kelly Lungren McCollum, at 5-0163 should you need additional information. I await your reply.

Sincerely,
